

FREE music support and advice sessions for primary schools – final places for Spring term, delivered by Analie Hart, music co-ordinator at Heron Primary

We know that school leaders face conflicting demands on their time and resources – and music is often not the most pressing priority.
If you feel you could be getting more out of music, then we can help.

Book a FREE specialist schools music advisory session from Make Music Gloucestershire, the county's music education hub – available to a limited number of schools.

We can help you and your teachers to understand how to bring music to life in your school, help teachers to feel more confident, make best use of the resources you already have, and identify sources of help and support, within and outside your school.

STEP 1

Pre-meeting fact finding – we'll find out what you're already doing, what resources you already have, and the areas you feel you'd like help with.

STEP 2

School visit and action planning with very practical steps – focusing on the areas where you'd like support.

STEP 3

You'll get immediate practical advice on the day, and we'll also follow up with written recommendations / an action plan for music in your school

Areas we can help you with:

- Your music resources cupboard, giving immediate practical advice.
- How to support your teachers – eg as part of the session, we could lead or co-lead a session and also look at some online resources that could make teaching music easier.
- What other resources and support are available, from parents to governors to Hub partners.
- Together we'll develop an outline action plan.

Who might be involved from my school?

The initial session might involve any combination of the following:

- headteacher
- music coordinator
- teacher/teaching assistant

As a result, you'll be assured that your school is:

- Making the most of the people and resources in your school.
- Ensuring high quality teaching and learning.
- Meeting the requirements of the music curriculum, the national plan for music education, and Ofsted's recommendations.
- Making the most of the impact that music can have on your pupil's learning, lives and futures.

To book a session, call 0786 6053326 or email aholford@themusicworks.org.uk.